Nationwide Nutrition Network (NNN) (Find a Nutrition Professional) was established for the purpose of assisting Active category American Dietetic Association (ADA) members in marketing their professional consulting services to consumers and/or businesses. In an effort to ensure that users of ADA's Find a Nutrition Professional Web site are provided with the type of information they are seeking, the specialized services of a dietetics professional, the following guidelines have been established.

General Requirements:

- Maintain a business telephone line/voicemail or answering machine.
- Provide a professional, private location for each business address listed with the Network. Addresses may include a physician's office or outpatient facility. When providing services at your client's homes or businesses exclusively, a private office/location is not necessary.
- Provide a list of professional references and a list of professional services to potential clients upon request.
- Practice within the boundaries of my state department of professional regulation.
- Adhere to the Code of Ethics of the American Dietetic Association.
- Provide the ADA with timely notification of any change(s) to all information included within my listing.
- Authorize release of my business address(es), telephone number(s), e-mail(s), and/or web site for participation in the online services at ADA's option.

Web Guidelines:

- Web site must prominently display the services available and must directly reflect or link to the item(s) specified in the "Services Provided and Areas of Expertise" portion of the NNN subscription form.
- If the Web site provided is that of the member's employer, the link must be to the page displaying the nutrition services provided by the employer OR a well explained secondary link that will take the inquirer to the nutrition services area.
- Web site must provide contact information; minimum of a name, address and phone number. E-mail and fax are optional.
- Any Web site that is 'under construction' must state the services provided, contact information and an approximate date when construction will be completed.
- Web site shall not offer any 'business opportunity'.
- Home page of the Web site must include consulting services information and may not solely be related to the sale of product(s) or a product catalog.
- Web site shall not be an advertisement for a restaurant, catering company, grocery, pharmacy or retail business unless that company provides nutrition-consulting services to the public/business community.
- Web site shall not be another association, an institution of higher learning, (including community college), university or distance education provider, unless the institution provides nutrition-consulting services to the public/business community.
- Web site content must be kept current. It is recommended that the content be reviewed/updated at least quarterly.
